Press Guarantee of Democracy's Future, Georgia Press Institute Told.

Interest of those attending the session. At the afternoon session the destiny of the democratic party formed the theme of the meeting, presided over by Julius Harris, director of advertising and former news director of The Constitution, during which Mr. Harris, Charles N. Feidelson, editor of the Birmingham Age-Herald, and Mark Ethridge, managing editor of the Macon Telegraph, delivered addresses on that subject, followed by round-table discussions which tended to throw a new and interesting light on opinions concerning the past, present and future prospects of the Jeffersonian party and its leaders. The afternoon session marked the highlight in the citizenship institute sessions, when Mr. Ethridge, after reviewing the performance of the democratic party up to and including the presidential elections last November, struck a solemn note of warning that unless party leadership develops in congress and unless President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt is able to show to the country the "new deal" promised in the campaign which placed the party in power, the democratic party, within the next 18 months, will be standing on the threshold of defeat.

Leadership Lack Deplored.

Mr. Ethridge deplored the lack of leadership which he said existed in democratic ranks in congress today and predicted the defeat of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, as the leader of his party in the upper branch of congress. "I believe," he said, "that Senator Robinson will go out as the democratic leader on March 4. I believe that a new leader will come in." Mr. Feidelson viewed with regret the fact that the senate of the United States Tuesday surrendered, as he termed it, its parliamentary prerogatives, in voting to give such powers to the incoming president. In the senate's action the Birmingham editor said he saw the outright dumping of governmental responsibilities onto the shoulders of Mr. Roosevelt, with the slogan, "Let Franklin D. Do It," uppermost in its intention.

Debts Important Question.

Mr. Harris said that much of the democratic party's future will be vitally affected by the questions of foreign debts. "Does there exist," he asked, "some alchemy by which the United States can raise its tariff walls and at the same time expect a full settlement of the loans made to European nations?" As viewed by Mr. Harris, the future of the party "depends on the method of handling the debts, the tariff, the plight of the farmer, the railroad situation, the problems of banking and currency, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, unemployment relief, and the budget."

"As I see it," he said, "the future of the democratic party depends on whether or not it realizes its responsibilities, and meets them by direct and courageous action, unhampered by selfish political influence and unmoved by the pleas or threats of privilege."

While the address of Dr. Odum opening the first session of the Georgia Press Institute was regarded as the outstanding feature of the joint program Wednesday, interest centered largely in the spirited debate started during the luncheon when Miss Hodgson, one of the best-informed students of political science in the south, delivered a talk in which she sounded a clarion call for a "mind-your-own-business" policy on the part of the United States, sinking this recommendation with a plea for disarmament, which was met squarely by Mr. Windsor, who asserted that the sure means of permanent peace was in disarmament, but in retention of armaments by leading nations of the world.

An international policy of co-operation among nations as offered by the League of Nations and the World Court, was suggested by Miss Hodgson as a means of economic recovery and a return to peace.

"I would suggest a simple workable policy which would be international, national, state and local in operation," she said. "Public opinion must be unified to be crystallized and placed before the people. Our women's clubs and other women's organizations should seek some means of bringing about such a policy, through the medium of organization."

"We Americans," she said, "don't really know what our issues are. We don't know whether we really wanted Roosevelt or not. We knew we didn't want Hoover."

After making a plea for a reduction of armaments, Miss Hodgson was followed by Mr. Windsor, who cited some statistics.

GOVERNORS RALLY TO ROOSEVELT IDEA

Many Hasten to Accept Invitation to White House Conference.

TALMADGE PLANS TO ATTEND PARLEY

Governor Eugene Talmadge, of Georgia, will attend the conference in Washington March 4, which is called by President-elect Roosevelt to map a program in which the governmental units would assist in a drive to regain prosperity.

"It's a good move, and I'll be there," said all Governor Talmadge would say.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Large attendance at the White House conference March 4 between Franklin D. Roosevelt and the various state governors was indicated today as word of the president-elect's invitation reached the state capitals.

A few state executives said sessions of their legislatures would prevent them from attending, a few said they would not go, but most of them hoped to attend. The Roosevelt letter calling the conference likewise met with praise and criticism.

Although the agenda outlined by Mr. Roosevelt was broad, expressions of some of the governors indicated they would take advantage of the offer to broaden the scope of the conversations.

The independent republican governor of Pennsylvania, Gifford Pinchot, at whose home Mrs. Roosevelt was recently a dinner guest, termed the conference "one of the best things that has happened for years in American public life."

Buck Accepts.

A republican, Douglas Buck, of Delaware, was one of the first to announce his intention of attending.

Two western democrats, William H. Murray, of Oklahoma, and Edwin C. Johnson, of Colorado, turned in their refusals early.

"If my ideas were not the same as those of the new president, I would be charged with trying to embarrass him," said "Alfalfa Bill," adding that it is his administration and the responsibility for it is on him.

Johnson said he would remain at home and tend to my knitting, declaring he did not believe in "jinks."

Johnson said "the state would save many dollars during the next two years keeping public officials at home."

A. Harry Moore, of New Jersey, a democrat, said he would take with him to Washington several thoughts to add to the agenda, among them expansion of army and navy enlistments as a measure of unemployment relief and a diversion of $200,000,000 from funds of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a "back-to-the-farm" movement.

While he said he did not, as yet, endorse the plan, Moore said this movement called for eight farm districts, widely separated, of approximately 40,000 acres each, in which some 250,000 persons would be afforded opportunity to provide livings for themselves under federal supervision.

Roosevelt Program.

The Roosevelt program called for consideration of:

conflicting state and federal taxes; federal aid to the unemployed; mortgage relief; reforestation, eliminating of marginal lands and flood control; and government consolidations to reduce taxes.

Joseph B. Ely, democrat, of Massachusetts, said he would have some additional proposals to offer, but would not disclose them at this time.

Discussing taxation while announcing his intention of staying over for the conference after the March 4 inauguration, William A. Comstock, democrat, of Michigan, recalled that Mr. Roosevelt "opposed the idea of a general national sales tax and I assume this was because he thought a number of states would wish to do as Michigan and seek sales tax revenues."

"Texas' Miriam 'Ma' Ferguson probably will not be able to attend, but her husband, former Governor James E. Ferguson, said the conference 'shows that Mr. Roosevelt is alive to the important issues now confronting the American people.'"

Other governors who announced their intention of attending the conference are:

much better the needs of the producers.

Under the allotment plan, a tax would be levied on the processor of wheat, cotton, tobacco, hogs, rice, peanuts and dairy products to pay the farmer who cuts his production a sum approximately equal to the difference between the present and the pre-war price.

There is sentiment in the committee for striking out all but wheat and cotton and eliminating "the acreage control provisions."

In the senate banking committee room, the subcommittee headed by Senator Fletcher, democrat, Florida, sought to amend the bill sponsored by Senator Hull, democrat, Tennessee, to make it meet objections by Paul Bestor, federal farm loan commissioner.

The Hull bill would authorize the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to lend $500,000,000 to holders of farm mortgages to pay mortgage interest and installments in default for more than six months and delinquent taxes in arrears for more than 12 months.

In return, the mortgage holder would be required to agree not to foreclose for two years.

SOUTH CAROLINA PARLEY HELD ON FORECLOSURES

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Governor Blackwood was authorized today at a conference with representatives of lending agencies in South Carolina to appoint a committee to assist in a movement to provide relief to mortgagors from real estate foreclosures.

The committee, to be composed of five or seven members, would aid legislative committees in devising plans for relief.

The committee was authorized to "incorporate the sentiment of this conference, which is in sympathy with extending every practicable leniency to mortgagors. Sentiment, however, was against an absolute mortgage foreclosure moratorium."

Alva M. Lumpkin, Columbia attorney, representing a large insurance company having extensive loans in the state, introduced a copy of the Iowa legislature's plan for state and county committees to arbitrate and recommend on foreclosures. Representative

By BEN COOPER.

A resolution memorializing congress to inflate the currency was introduced in the house Wednesday by Representative Vaughn, of Rockdale county. It will be acted upon today.

A senate bill requiring automobiles to stop for school buses discharging or taking on passengers was approved Wednesday by the motor vehicles committee of the senate.

There will be a public hearing at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, on the proposal to abolish the department of archives and history and create a division of archives and history in the department of the secretary of state.

County and county matters committee of the senate Wednesday approved a house bill authorizing the DeKalb county commissioner to supplement funds of the DeKalb county board of education up to $1,500 a month for nine months of the year.

Representative Roy Harris, of Richmond, Wednesday introduced in the house a bill aimed at bootleggers of gasoline who import gas over the state's border to avoid payment of the tax. A reward of 25 per cent of the fine assessed against violators is provided, and the comptroller general would be furnished with inspectors to go after violators. Harris offered a companion bill to prevent fraud in selling cheap gasoline for grades of a higher quality.

Dorsett, of Carroll, to sell the Western & Atlantic railroad and its terminal properties in Atlanta and Chattanooga was turned down Wednesday by the house appropriations committee. The bill suggested the railroad be sold through negotiations by a commission.

The bill of Beasley, of Tattall, appropriating $7,500 for maintaining during 1933 the new state prison farm in Toombs and Tattall counties was approved by the committee.

The house committee on game and fish Wednesday voted to approve a bill by Hodges, of Liberty, to prohibit the use of hand cast nets in sound waters off Liberty county. The bill originally included the entire Georgia coast, but the committee amended it to apply only to Liberty county.

The house committee on banks and banking Wednesday approved a bill by Representative Dorsett to allow the superintendent of banks to loan money on the assets of a closed bank for reorganizing that bank or distributing that money to creditors. Another Dorsett bill that was approved would provide that where 75 per cent of the stockholders and depositors agree to reorganize a closed bank their action shall be compulsory on the other 25 per cent.

charged that an audit showed that the department spent nearly $500,000 for engineers alone and that Captain J. W. Barnett, chairman of the board, "has set an example of extravagance and waste for other employees."

Senator Knox said that he had a "resolution passed the very day Lord Barnett came here and took charge. The resolution was handed to me by a former member of the senate, who said it took him two weeks of diligent efforts to get it out of the department, and he even had to threaten action in the senate to get it."

"It shows that Captain Barnett on the day he became chairman voted himself a salary of $8,400 a year, but that's not all. This remarkable resolution shows that he voted himself $9 a day for board and lodging. Lord Barnett likewise voted himself traveling expenses in unlimited amount."

"Nor is that all," said Senator Knox. "His predecessor, Mr. Tate had purchased himself a Lincoln automobile, but this did not meet the fastidious taste of Mr. Barnett. He gave it away and bought him another one. Not only that, but he had a chauffeur and paid him in salary and expense more than $4,000 a year. Is that honest, decent administration of the people's affairs, or is that waste and extravagance?"

"Will Wade in Sands." Charging that capitol and hotel lobbies are filled with people pleading for the highway department, Senator Knox said that "they have even brought misguided county commissioners here and put the whip and spur behind them to bring influence on members of the general assembly. The department has threatened these men that paving in their counties is at stake. A commissioner from a district—and he is a good man—told me he wanted more paving for his county, and added 'I find that the trouble is that your attention is not right.' If it takes my seal of approval on these outrages of extravagance by the highway department to get roads, my constituents now in the senate will have to be satisfied with the highway department forever will waste in the sands of south Georgia."

JUDICIAL REVISION BILL IS DISCUSSED

Unification, Simplification Measure Supported and Opposed at Hearing.

Unification in supervision of the courts and simplification of procedure proposed in a senate bill based on the report of a committee on judicial and legislative reform, Wednesday afternoon was discussed in a public hearing before members of the congressional and legislative reapportionment committee of the state senate.

Sponsored in addresses by Judge Blanton Fortson, of Athens; Marion Smith, president of the Georgia Bar Association; Hutton Lovejoy, of LaGrange; and Judge A. B. Lovett, of Savannah, and ex-Senator Emmett Williams, of Monroe, the bill drew the first of Judge Arthur Powell and Attorney Reuben Arnold.

Judge Powell spoke against provisions which would abolish the court of appeals, holding that "when you create another court you create a nuisance, but the court of appeals is a necessary nuisance."

Mr. Arnold charged that the judicial council as set up in the bill should be a "supreme body which the legislature could not change." The measure would allow life tenure of judges, which is the worst thing on earth, he said. The bill would take power away from the legislature and substitute perpetual legislation by the council, he said.

Judge Fortson said that the bill would divide Georgia courts into three classes, supreme, superior and inferior, and that superior courts of the state would be consolidated into 10 divisions. The six appellate court judges would be transferred to the superior courts. County courts would be in four divisions, law, probate, juvenile and magistrate. Jurors would be allowed to determine only questions of fact, and judges would render all decisions, he said.

Mr. Smith said that "lawyers feel that the delay in final disposition of cases in Georgia is becoming intolerable and that too much time is taken up in technical proceedings and new trials."

Senator Andrew J. Tuten, of Alma, forty-sixth chairman of the senate committee, said that an executive session will be held later to discuss the bill in committee.

Representative O. A. Park, of Bibb county, argued at length in favor of the bill, which was opposed by the Fulton and DeKalb delegations. Representative William H. Hartfield, of the former, taking the floor to assert that the amendment gave the cities too broad a taxing power. Hartfield said he was in favor of home rule for cities, but only if some curb is put on the taxing powers of the municipalities.

Representative Harris, of Richmond county also took the floor in opposition to the measure.

The house Wednesday rejected a proposed constitutional amendment which would have provided "home rule" for the various municipalities. The vote was 117 to 75 in favor of submitting the amendment. However, it was lost because the submission of a constitutional amendment requires approval by two-thirds vote.

Representative O. A. Park, of Bibb county, argued at length in favor of the bill, which was opposed by the Fulton and DeKalb delegations. Representative William H. Hartfield, of the former, taking the floor to assert that the amendment gave the cities too broad a taxing power. Hartfield said he was in favor of home rule for cities, but only if some curb is put on the taxing powers of the municipalities.

The amendment would have allowed various counties to set up their plan

Many Are Seeking Jobs To Loan Federal Funds

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Applications for jobs to help the government distribute $90,000,000 in credit production loans to farmers today outnumbered inquiries from prospective borrowers.

In the Washington regional office, serving eastern states, 10,000 applications for positions had been received, S. M. Thompson, regional director, said. He added that not more than 200 additional employees will be added to the pay rolls of his office.

HULL SEEKS TAX ON ALL SECURITIES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—A constitutional amendment to make all future government and state securities subject to taxation and give congress control over all tax exemption was introduced today by Senator Cordell Hull, democrat, Tennessee.

The amendment, which Hull said he would press for early action, would not apply to incomes derived from securities expressly authorized as tax-exempt prior to ratification and would give congress power to exempt any local, state or local bonds, for not more than five years, in time of war.

Hull, in a statement accompanying the amendment, said:

"The United States ought not to contract away its power to tax wealth by tax exemptions. We have some $38,000,000,000 of federal, state and local securities largely exempt from all taxation. The total value of properties exempt prior to the panic aggregated $800,000,000,000."

"It is unwise to create a class in the country which cannot be reached for tax purposes. Such policy is utterly inconsistent, and at war with any system of graduated income taxes and it would ultimately destroy the latter."

Senator Ashurst, democrat, Arizona, who has a similar amendment pending, told the senate today that action along this line was imperative.

PROPOSAL TO CUT POLICE PENSIONS TO $60 ADOPTED

tor Sims are in accord on the measure, it is certain to pass both houses without opposition on the floor.

After the committee hearing the widows who had been present called upon Governor Talmadge and asked him to veto the measure.

The house Wednesday rejected a proposed constitutional amendment which would have provided "home rule" for the various municipalities. The vote was 117 to 75 in favor of submitting the amendment. However, it was lost because the submission of a constitutional amendment requires approval by two-thirds vote.

Representative O. A. Park, of Bibb county, argued at length in favor of the bill, which was opposed by the Fulton and DeKalb delegations. Representative William H. Hartfield, of the former, taking the floor to assert that the amendment gave the cities too broad a taxing power. Hartfield said he was in favor of home rule for cities, but only if some curb is put on the taxing powers of the municipalities.

The amendment would have allowed various counties to set up their plan

Boatman Rescued.

PORT ARTHUR, Texas, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Edward Hobbs, 20-year-old sportsman, was rescued by a coast guard cruiser today after drifting five hours in a 16-foot motorboat on Lake Sabine. Hobbs' boat was being swept toward the open sea by a stiff north wind when he was overtaken.

county government were approved by a majority in that county.

Government Mergers Provided. Another provision was that the general assembly shall "provide by general law optional systems of consolidated county and municipal government providing for the organization and the powers and duties of its officers without regard to uniformity."

Park explained that this permitted any city or county to combine their government without coming to the legislature.

Proponents of the measure argued that local legislation consumed too much time in the general assembly and that it should be left to the counties and cities to govern themselves without interference of the legislature.

The opponents contended that passage of the constitutional amendment would create confusion throughout the state and would leave the way open for the cities to levy high taxes.

Fifty and Fit

A MAN is as old—or as young—as his organs.

At fifty, you can be in your prime.

Why go along with "fairly good health" when you might be enjoying vigor you haven't felt for years?

There's a simple little thing anyone can do to keep the vital organs stimulated, and feel fit all the time. People don't realize how sluggish they've grown until they've tried it. The stimulant that will stir your system to new life is Dr. Caldwell's syrup.

This famous doctor's prescription is a delicious syrup made with fresh herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. It starts its good work with the first spoonful. That's all you need to drive away the dullness and headache of a bilious spell, and rid the system of that slow poison that saps your strength. It's better than a tonic for tired bowels, and unlike habit-forming laxatives you can take it freely or give it to any child. And it isn't expensive.

Get some syrup pepsin today, and take a little tonight. Don't wait until you're sick to give your system this wonderful help. You can avoid those spells of biliousness or constipation. A spoonful every now and then is better than constant worry about the condition of your bowels, or fear of auto-intoxication as you grow older. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin protects the system. All druggists keep this preparation.

BANKERS ENDORSE NEW COTTON PLAN

Proposal To Use Government-Owned Cotton for Control Lauded.

The Georgia Bankers Association, through its agricultural committee, has given its unqualified endorsement to the plan for using government-owned cotton to control 1933 production.

H. Grady Langford, chairman of the bankers' agricultural committee, Wednesday wired Senators Walter F. George and Richard B. Russell Jr., as follows: "Georgia bankers are gratified by new proposal espousing production control by use of government-owned cotton. This plan in our judgment affords greater advantages to cotton states than all other farm relief measures combined. Paramount importance to get measure enacted before congress adjourns."

Their replies expressing appreciation of the bankers' views on the subject indicate that this measure is receiving the most serious consideration from immediate enactment.

H. Lane Young, chairman of the agricultural committee of the American Bankers Association, has written the president of every state bankers association in the cotton belt, urging them to exert every means at their command to secure the support of their respective state delegations in congress. In this letter Mr. Young says:

"This plan has been worked out by the cotton manufacturers, cotton cooperative associations, independent growers, government agencies and members of congress."

"If this bill can be enacted into law at this session of congress all government agencies and many independent agencies dealing with cotton farmers are ready to present it to individuals and groups of cotton farmers throughout the entire belt."

"It is believed that the farmers will respond to this opportunity to control production in 1933."

"You will remember what a boost it gave to cotton prices when the August 8 forecast of cotton production was made in 1932. If we can use three million bales of government cotton to curtail production this year by that amount, I believe the south will go over the top and that the question of domestic allotment plans on cotton at least will not be needed."

"I am informed by reliable sources that if something is not done to prevent it, there will be a considerable increase in cotton acreage throughout the belt this year. With present conditions this would be hazardous."

Convict Recaptured.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Police here today arrested a man said to be John Matthews, alias Jack Mslucus, an escapee from the Alabama penitentiary, on a tip from Alabama authorities. The detective bureau here said Matthews recently escaped while serving a 10-year sentence for the holding of a Mobile drug store, which an alleged accomplice and a policeman were killed.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Recovery!

"Es Geht Aufwärts," we are moving ahead. This is the bold slogan which M. Jules Sauerwein, the editor of the prominent Parisian paper, Journal, heard on all sides in Germany. We have the courage to proclaim to the whole world, said the director of the Norddeutsche Transport Company, to M. Sauerwein at Luebeck, "we have the courage to proclaim that the year 1933 will mean the return of better times." In fact, when one examines the German economic situation closely, one finds that there is a considerable improvement. We should not lose sight of the fact that the depression started in Germany and that for a few months, in the middle of last year, it seemed on the verge of collapse, even the most optimistic were losing their nerve. With the German people, it should not be forgotten either, optimism is not the moral phenomenon that it is in England. The Germans have a technical mentality, they are practical. They only believe in facts. Victor Bosch, the great industrialist of Germany, writes in the Journal, "The recovery of Germany economically is truly remarkable. If it is not stronger, this is due to the lack of confidence in the stability of conditions. . . . Yet with a little more patience, we shall see some prodigious changes in the near future."

It is entirely possible that the governors' conference may mark the definite turning point from centralization of government in Washington back towards the former system under which each state attended almost entirely to its own public affairs.

A CITY'S HEALTH FIRST.

Warning of what may be expected as a result of the pollution of the streams in and around Atlanta as the result of the city's antiquated and inadequate sewage disposal system is to be found in a ruling of the supreme court of Ohio requiring the town of Van Wert to obey the order of the state department of health to construct a sewage-treatment plant.

Despite the order of the health department, the voters of Van Wert some months ago voted down a bond issue for the construction of a plant which would end a growing threat to the health conditions along the streams into which its sewage was being dumped.

The state health officials applied for a mandamus to enforce its order and the city pleaded poverty and pointed out that an additional tax levy for this purpose would carry the rate beyond the legal limit.

The controversy was taken by the health board to the supreme court of the state, the judgment of which is that a city's health must be its first consideration.

While the health department of Georgia is not given as sweeping authority as is the case in Ohio, there are no more exacting laws on the statute books of the state than those prohibiting the pollution of streams.

Sooner or later, unless Atlanta ceases dumping raw sewage into the streams flowing out of Fulton county, the matter will be brought before the courts, which will have no alternative than to mandamus the city.

Atlanta has already spent a half million dollars for the preparation of a topographical map of the surrounding territory, and a bill has been introduced by Senator Sims calling for the creation of a metropolitan sewer district and providing the legal machinery for the construction of an adequate sewer system.

As the result of the offer of the county board to turn over to the city a large number of convicts and the necessary machinery, and the inclusion in the city budget of $30,000 for this purpose, several miles of sewers can be constructed this year, but this will hardly be a start to the amount of work necessary to be done before the pollution of all the streams in the county is ended.

It is not a question of whether the community is able, at this time, to do the work, but of whether it can afford not to begin it.

Another law needed to improve the appearance of our highways is one requiring agents to scrap the cars they allow customers to trade in.

The Japs took a city because the soldiers were "eager for active service." All fighters seem eager to get at a set-up.

"Garbo's aversion to publicity is a vile shame" means: "She can't refuse me an interview and get away with it."

Thank goodness! When the last taxpayer's last dollar is gone, congress will have to think up some other plan of salvation.

Your sins find you out. You patronize a freak movie and make it a success, and then you must endure an epidemic like it.

The middle class must be the one that gets from the government the same amount it pays in.

The voluntary allotment plan to save farmers doesn't include goats. Our cities will provide them.

The success of advertised cold cures indicates that the

THOMAS STOPS FALLING HAIR

Hair in your comb and brush means that your scalp is not physically able to withstand the ravaging attacks of the baldness producing germs. Unless you immediately rid your scalp of these causes of abnormal hair fall, you are bound to become bald.

Thomas treatment overcomes the causes of falling hair and gently stimulates the tiny glands, deep in the scalp, which cause hair to grow normally. When Thomas treatment starts, hair fall stops, dandruff ends and hair grows again as Nature intended it should grow. Thomas treatment is reliable, dignified and proved by more than 16 years of success. Call today for a free scalp examination and learn more about this modern, precise method of scientific hair culture.

WET FEET
DRAFTS
STUFFY TRAINS

Often prove too much for people with low resistance!

Some people can't understand why they always come down with ills at this time of year.

They protect themselves against exposure. They're careful about wet feet and drafts. But they do little about their own physical condition.

They should build up their general resistance as well! Low resistance is always hazardous.

To increase vitality, to improve physical stamina, certain factors are particularly needed—Vitamins A and D.

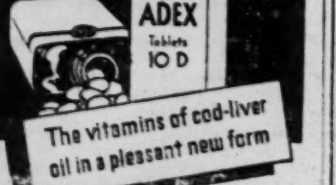

Formerly, to provide people with low resistance enough of these protective factors, physicians recommended taking good cod-liver oil regularly!

Now Vitamins A and D are much more easily available—in a pleasant-tasting concentrate—Squibb Adex Tablets—10 D's!

The Vitamin A which Adex tablets contain helps to increase general resistance. Vitamin D is the essential sunshine vitamin.

Thus, people who take Adex daily will be helped through the damp, rainy season. Their well-being and comfort will be greatly increased.

Ask at any reliable drug store for Squibb Adex Tablets—10 D's!

Hoover Denies Report Of Trip Around World

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—President Hoover said today that he did not expect to leave the United States after March 4, except possibly to pass through the Panama canal zone on his way home.

The president made the statement in response to questions by newspapermen regarding reports he would make a trip around the world or visit the South Sea Islands after inauguration day.

The Community Chest and three other charitable agencies, Grady hospital special relief committee and other appropriations were not made Wednesday as the agencies were not represented at a special meeting called for apportioning the money.

The board at the same session ordered a special meeting for 2:30 o'clock next Monday for the purpose of making a survey of the sheriff's office in an effort to ascertain whether Sheriff James L. Lowry is hampered by the loss of 10 bailiffs as he told the board in seeking a readjustment Wednesday. Ten of his bailiffs have been dropped from the pay roll at the order of the board.

A total of $20,000 was appropriated to the Community Chest agencies as follows: American Red Cross, $4,500; Anti-Tuberculosis Association, $7,500; Carrie Steele Logan home, $2,500; Churches' Home for Girls, $4,000; Community Home for Girls, $3,400; Community Shop for the Handicapped, $750; Child Welfare Association, $15,000; Family Welfare Society, $14,000; Florence Crittenden home, $2,500; Gate City Kindergarten, $1,500; Home for Incurables, $8,500; Home for Old Women, $8,000; Hillside Cottages, $8,000; Sheltering Arms, $6,500; and West Point milk fund, $750.

Three other charities came in for appropriations as their representatives were present. The Good Samaritan Clinic is to be given as much as the city donates, up to $3,500. Holmes Institute is to receive $75 a month and Battle Hill sanatorium is to receive $7,500 for repairs and equipment.

MISS JANE L. WATERS WILL BE BURIED TODAY

Funeral services for Miss Jane Lealand Waters, widely known resident of West End, who died Tuesday night at her residence, at 1195 Gordon street, will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Peachtree chapel of Brandon, Bond & Condon. The Rev. Wallace Rogers and the Rev. M. A. Cooper will officiate and interment will be in West View cemetery.

Miss Waters was an Atlanta pioneer, having lived here for more than 55 years, during which time she was prominently connected with the New Home Sewing Machine Company for 35 years, and for the last 12 years was a partner in the Leroy Webb Company, dealers in musical instruments. She was a member of the Park Street Methodist church.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. A. P. Boardman, well-known cooking expert; three brothers, Judge W. R. Turner, of New York city; Alba Waters, of Atlanta, and Lewis Waters, Knoxville (Tenn.); architect; a niece, Mrs. Leroy Webb, of Atlanta, and three nephews, Howard, John and Forrest Waters, of Atlanta.

MRS. CHARLES CANDLER DIES IN CLEARWATER

Mrs. Charles Candler, member of a widely known Georgia family and a former resident of Villa Rica, died Wednesday morning at her residence in Clearwater, Fla. She was 73 years of age.

Mrs. Candler was a sister-in-law of Judge John S. Candler and of Bishop Warren A. Candler, prominent Atlantans. Her husband was Samuel Charles Candler, who died many years ago.

A native of Mississippi, where she resided before her marriage to the late Mr. Candler, Mrs. Candler lived for many years in Villa Rica and was well known there. She removed to the Florida city 20 years ago. Her health had been failing for the last several years.

The body will be brought to Villa Rica for funeral services at 11 o'clock Friday morning, and interment will be in the Villa Rica cemetery.

Mrs. Candler is survived by a son, Asa Warren Candler, of Atlanta, and four daughters, Mrs. S. S. Conthman, Mrs. Will Raybaum and Mrs. Bertram Allen, all of Clearwater, Fla., and Mrs. Reid Hearn, of Greenville, S. C.

J. P. B. ALLAN DIES IN COLUMBIA, S. C.

J. P. B. Allan, part-time resident of Atlanta and southern manager of the Johnson Publishing Company, of Richmond, Va., died Wednesday morning in Columbia, S. C., where he had been for the last several months. He was a native of Greenville, S. C., and had also resided in Nashville, Tenn.

He is survived by his wife, five sisters, Mrs. J. A. Reed, of Acworth, Ga.; Mrs. J. R. Mann, Mrs. Lillian Stevens, Mrs. J. R. Dyer and Miss Mamie Allan, and a brother, Harry L. Allan, of Atlanta.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock Friday morning at the Spring Hill chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son and burial will be in West View cemetery.

SETTLEMENT AWARDED ON SMOKY LAND CLAIM

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Feb. 8.—(AP) Commission appointed to consider the claim of the Ravensford Lumber Company, of Haywood county, against the Great Smoky Mountain park commission, today awarded the company $975,161 in settlement for a tract of 32,321 acres in the Great Smoky National park.

The commission, consisting of Judge J. L. Manning, Raleigh; T. LeBoeuf Gwynn, of Waynesville, and W. N. Garrett, Asheville, was appointed by the court late last year. For the past week it has been hearing expert witnesses.

Kid Elberfeld's Plea for More Baseball Spirit Only Sincere One

There is a great deal of talk and writing about adding spirit to the game of baseball. It is an annual story, file A—section B—to the effect that what baseball needs is some of the old-timers who battled each other and the umpires, who would fight at the drop of a hat and borrow a hat to drop. And so on.

Now, this is all very nice for the boys to write, but it pains me to see some of the baseball owners coming out in interviews advocating that they are very sad because their players do not go about popping one another on the nose or busting umpires, so to speak.

Because, after some years of peering at the game, it is evident that the very first thing that happens when a player pops another player on the nose, is that the owner is properly horrified and yells "copper" and has the player handled by the constabulary.

He then gives out interviews decrying rowdiness on the playing field and bemoans the fact that good, clean sport has had its escutcheon marred, and so forth.

The league president, who also has been known to wish wistfully for the good old days, joins in by plastering a fine and suspension on the player and also lets the public know how hurt he is that one of those wearing a baseball uniform should so conduct himself. And so on.

If it should be an umpire who gets popped on the nose, Judge Kenesaw M. Landis often forgets about his golf long enough to either bar the player for one year and fine him, or at least fine and ban him for a long period of months. Sometimes the league president inflicts these punishments at the behest of the judge.

I recall how Johnny Dobbs, in 1931, popped Umpire Goes on the jaw in the first night game of the season. The league officials were properly sorrowful. And Johnny Dobbs was about to go away for the year until the newspaper writers got busy. It seems that they were perhaps not as interested in the purity of the game's conduct. At any rate, there was such a storm of public opinion behind Johnny Dobbs that he was set down for only three months and that sentence was reduced.

The game of baseball has been dehydrated and will remain that way. Because the players have become so civilized and such clean sports that they do not care about things enough to go about popping rivals on the nose.

There are usually two or three players on each team who would like to, but they soon get shushed out of it and become good, clean sports like the others.

And so I wish the ball players and the owners would quit talking about the good old days and how they would like to see some good, old-fashioned fist fights again. Because if they did see them they would call up for the wagon.

KID ELBERFELD.

The latest appeal for more spirit, or diamond battles, is from Norman (Kid) Elberfeld. And he is the first one who sounds sincere. Because the Kid has scars on the top of his dome. And they are from battles he lost. He must have fought a million in his day and he never won a fight. But he was always first to start one.

And what did all this picturesque fighting spirit get the Kid? Why, they practically eased him out of the league. I recall at least a half-dozen of the eight owners in the Southern association telling me that the Kid was too rough; that those days were gone forever in baseball; that a man could no longer step on umpires' toes with his spikes, as the Kid did; that baseball was a good, clean game, and so forth and so on.

I recall more than once seeing the Kid's bald dome go into the thick of the fights in the Southern league. They had them even a dozen years ago, although even then the owners were trying their best to make the sport a good, clean sport. And some were pointing out that the advent of college men was raising the standards of the game and so forth. This was so much bunk and the owners knew it. But they kept right on. They didn't want any rowdy conduct.

The Kid wasn't a rowdy. He never was. He wanted to win ball games and if he felt he had been wronged he wanted to settle it then and there. People used to come out to see him. His bench was a picturesque place, with two or three colored boys (Cecil was the most famous. I wonder what became of Cecil?) sitting about there as mascots.

And so, when the Kid speaks up and says the game needs more fighting spirit and more colorful competition, I will listen. But the owners and the players have made the game what it is. They got rid of all the fighters and they killed off baseball. Or much of the interest in it.

I do not mean that baseball should be a mixture of prize fighting and fielding. But there was never any harm in those mild battles between umpires and players and they were forgot by the next day.

If a player objects to a decision today the umpire fires him out of the park and if he objects with his fists the owner calls the police wagon.

So, I wish they would quit talking about how they wish baseball had some of the old-time spirit.

THE MEXICAN BASKETBALL TEAM.

The Mexican basketball team from Mexico City is to play Georgia Tech tonight. And I hope that the citizenry will turn out in large numbers to give a good welcome to a fine group of boys.

The boys are making a good-will tour of the United States and they have a very fine basketball team. They are real Mexican boys, courageous and spirited, and it will do a lot of our tourists good to see them. Because too many of our tourists have seen only Juarez and Tia Juana, where a lot of Americans run saloons.

The Mexican boys are coming forward in football and basketball and even baseball. Reggie Root, who is now head coach at Yale, took football to Mexico City. And he found that the Mexican boys played with a spirit as fine as any seen anywhere in America. The auditorium will be warm tonight. The Georgia Tech Athletic Association, in arranging this game, has given Atlantans a chance to witness an international game and visitors from another nation playing what is perhaps the only game which is really all-American.

VERY, VERY DIFFICULT.

In weather like this it is very difficult indeed to strike while the iron is hot.

Benefit Wrestling At Hercules Club

A double-header windup and three other matches will feature a benefit wrestling card at 8 o'clock tonight at the Greek church auditorium, corner Pryor and Richardson streets, sponsored by the Hercules Athletic Club.

Young Tofalos and "Bad Boy" Dunn will meet in a 60-minute limit, match and Young London will wrestle Frank Smith in a 45-minute limit. Max Shapiro will meet George Carnerie in a one-fall 30-minute limit, and Pete Paris and George Demos will furnish the two 15-minute preliminary matches.

Clark Will Meet Morris Brown Five

Clark University and Morris Brown College, two of the best basketball teams in the Southern colored conference, will meet for the second time this season Friday night at 8 o'clock on the court of the Sunset casino.

VANDY ENTERS TOURNEY HERE

ENTRY BLANKS SENT ALL TEAMS IN CONFERENCE

All Squads Must Be Reduced to 10 Men for Meet.

Entry blanks for the first southern basketball tournament to be held here February 24, providing for 14 players, yesterday were placed in the hands of the 13 coaches of the conference, requesting that they be filled out and returned to H. J. Stegeman, of University of Georgia, chairman of the tournament committee, as soon as possible.

Of the 14 players entered on entry lists, four of them must be stricken off by the opening date of the tournament, as only 10 players will be allowed each squad. The first list to be furnished Stegeman is a tentative one.

Roy Mundorf, Tech coach, said that he would go about picking the 14 players to be sent in from his squad as soon as possible and that the week-end trip to Kentucky and Tennessee would aid him in determining the 10 men who will ultimately comprise Tech's tournament squad. The tourney's opening is only 12 days away.

Meanwhile a colorful entrant whose status has been in doubt was assured yesterday when Josh Cody, coach of Vanderbilt's strong team, announced from Nashville that the school had definitely decided to enter a team this year.

All other members of the new conference, including Sewanee, which has shown improvement of late, are expected to enter teams.

It also was learned yesterday that Bowser Chestnut, of Nashville, and Wood, of Jacksonville, Fla., had practically been decided upon as the two officials who will handle the meet. Pairings will be drawn here on Monday, February 20, when coaches meet to select the four strongest teams and make out the brackets.

Alabama, Kentucky, Vandy and L. S. U. are setting the pre-tournament pace, while Georgia, last year's conference champion, is coming to the front, judging from recent victories.

The 13 members of the Southeastern conference, formed at Knoxville last fall, are: Tech, Georgia, Auburn, Alabama, Kentucky, Vanderbilt, Sewanee, L. S. U., Mississippi State, University of Mississippi and Tulane.

Corbett was heavyweight champion of the world for five years, from 1892 to 1897, winning the title from Sullivan and losing it to Fitzsimmons. He was born September 1, 1866.

Just how soon the end will come, no one can say, but his friends say he will meet it with the same fine courage with which he faced John L. Sullivan, Tom Sharkey, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Jeffries and other stalwarts of his fighting days.

He has suffered from a weak heart for several years, being seriously ill no less than a year ago. Last Tuesday came the latest attack, one so severe he was not expected to live for a time.

But he rallied and his condition has been little changed the last few days, except that he appears to be gradually growing weaker. Only Mrs. Corbett, his two friends, John and Denny Keleher, of Boston, have him, and other friends are discouraged from calling because undue excitement might hasten the end.

"First In War..."

DURABLE JOEY IS GOING AFTER SCOTT'S RECORD!

Joe Sewell, old Alabama star, yesterday returned his signed contract to the New York Yankees to become the first regular, outside of the pitchers, to enter the ranks of the club, threatened on all sides by a hold-out war.

Elmo Fryer to Enter Professional Boxing

Burke, New Orleans Promoter, Is Interested in Former Tech Welterweight Star.

By Ralph McGill.

Elmo Fryer, who won the Southeastern A. A. U. boxing championship in the welterweight division last season and who went to the Olympic trials and the national intercollegiate, has decided to enter professional ranks.

Martin Burke, former heavyweight contender and now manager of Eddie Flynn, former National A. A. U. champion who entered professional ranks some months ago, is interested in Fryer's career and said in a reply to a query last night that he would give him a shot at Flynn after he has proved his ability. Burke also said that he had a number of boxers under his wing and that if he did not handle Fryer himself, he would give him a chance to take a chance.

Fryer is one of the most promising amateurs to be developed in the south. His career last year was handicapped considerably by the fact that he had a badly abused ear in all his fights. He went to the semi-finals in the Southern conference, despite the pain from his ear, which kept him sleepless for three nights.

In the national intercollegiate he defeated Yale's best welterweight, Belden, but lost in the next round. He was also one of nine men selected to go to the final Olympic tryouts and was designated there as a second fight.

There is no doubt but that his injured ear handicapped him considerably last winter. He has worked steadily and has decided to enter professional ranks only after due deliberation. He will not enter the pro game unless he can get a good manager who will give him a chance.

Martin Burke, who handles a number of good fighters, is expected to give Fryer his professional debut within a short time after taking him over.

Spalding and Roos At Dover Hall

Hughes Spalding, representing the board of directors of the Atlanta baseball club, and Business Manager F. H. Roos left yesterday at noon for Dover Hall, where today they are to confer with President Wilbert Robinson regarding the set-up of the 1933 club.

'Little Poison' Too Frail For Minors, Packs Punch

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Lloyd Wauer, too frail to play in the minor league, is one of the "strong men" in John Heydler's circuit in so far as slugging averages are concerned.

The story goes that "Little Poison," Pittsburgh centerfielder, was turned loose by the San Francisco Seals in 1926 because the management feared he could not bear up under the strain due to his slight build. He weighs only 145 pounds and is 5 feet 8 inches in height.

Statistics reveal Wauer owns a combined batting mark of .341 for the six years he has been playing in the National League.

JACKETS PLAY MEXICAN TEAM AT AUDITORIUM

Youths on Tour of States Appear Here Tonight.

By Jimmy Jones.

Twelve Mexican youths who left their native land on December 27 for a 32-game basketball tour of the United States come to Atlanta tonight to play the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets in their only appearance in the state of Georgia.

The Mexican boys are billed as "ambassadors of good will, genuine representatives of the best of Mexican youth." Their trip, which embraces a good percentage of the states in the United States, is termed "the international friendship tour"—Mexico's gesture of good will to her neighbor across the border.

Very little is known of the Mexicans' prowess as basketball players, however. With the exception of Borja, 6-foot-2 center, the players are all average in size. They are said to be very fast on the floor and while not engaged in making an experiment of the game of basketball, they are reported to be learning it fast.

They struck a tartar last Saturday night in the University of Kentucky and were defeated rather decisively, but then Kentucky is capable of beating the average good American college team.

Basketball is just being introduced to Mexico, along with football and other American sports. Since Reggie Root, now coach at Yale, went to Mexico to introduce the game of football, a wave of hysteria for sports of all kinds has hit the country. Bert Niehoff took his champion Chattanooga basketball team for a tour of the country last fall and now, with the invasion of basketball, it would not be surprising to see bull fighting take the background as the leading Mexican diversion.

Leoncio Ochoa, coach of the Mexicans, has issued a message to the press regarding the purpose of the trip as follows:

"It is indeed a privilege for me to present to the citizens of the United States a group of boys representing the sport-loving young men of Mexico. It is our hope that this group will be given to them, as they are commemorated to the big responsibility in accepting the work of showing to the people of the United States, the spirit of the new Mexican youth—strong, healthy and clean in spirit, mind and body."

MAKE FRIENDS.

"In this tour, we do not know how many games we will lose but we are absolutely sure of one thing and it is that we will do our best to win the hearts and friendship of all the young men with whom we happen to get in touch."

"Our main idea is to learn and assimilate all the good things that may come in our way and also to give forth all the good that is in us. (Signed) LEONCIO OCHOA."

The players on the team are Captain Leoncio Ochoa, Roberto Flores, Juan Rodriguez, Flores, San toyo, Eugenio Rodriguez.

The average age of the players is 23. The Rodriguez brothers, Boris and Hernandez, are outstanding players.

From Atlanta, they are scheduled to go to Mississippi for a game with Mississippi College, then on to Louisiana where they play the Brown Paper Mills, the Hunt Oilers, Louisiana College, Louisiana State University and thence on to Mexico.

The trip started December 27 and closes February 24—a good two months of touring.

While in Atlanta, the Mexican boys will be taken on a sight-seeing tour of the city.

In a preliminary to their game with Tech tonight, Lanier High school, of Macon, will play the Tech freshmen. The varsity game starts about 8:30.

Niehoff and Smith, Public Speakers

Bert Niehoff, former manager of the Crackers and pennant-winning pilot at Chattanooga last year, has become something of a public speaker lately.

Niehoff and Bob Smith, who will pitch for the Cincinnati Reds next season, spoke before members of Mait Lodge No. 641 at the Masonic temple Wednesday night.

Three Strikes Win Entry for Srochi

Jake Srochi scored three strikes in the last box to overcome opponents' leads and win the preliminary sweepstakes event at the Atlanta bowling tournament last night. Srochi's achievement has been duplicated only about four times since the alleys have been opened.

Srochi bowled a 104-121-130-335 for the three-game sweepstakes, which earned him an entry in the John Ellen sweepstakes, Friday and Saturday. Srochi's triple-header strikes won him a round of applause. There will be another sweepstakes tonight and will be the final opportunity for city bowlers to win an entry.

Brooklyn Sends Slade With Star

Dodgers Receive Owen Carroll and D'Arcy Flowers in Straight Player Exchange.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers announced tonight that they had traded Dizzy Vance, their famous speedball pitcher, and Infielder Gordon Slade to the St. Louis Cardinals for Pitcher Owen Carroll and Infielder D'Arcy "Jake" Flowers. It was a straight player trade, the announcement said, and no cash was involved.

The announcement came as something of a surprise, although it had been known that Vance was "on the market" for some time. No word of a trade between the Cards and Brooklyn had leaked out.

Flowers, formerly played in the Brooklyn infield, but was sold to St. Louis during the 1932 season.

For many years one of the greatest right-handers in the National League, Vance has been a source of considerable annoyance to the Dodgers during the past couple of seasons. At times he would show all the "stuff" that carried him to one strikeout record after another and won him the most valuable player prize in 1924, but he frequently followed with a poor performance or required a long rest before taking the mound again.

In 1932 he became the Dodgers' winning 12 and losing 11, but he was credited with only nine complete games.

After a couple of earlier trials with the New York Yankees, Vance came into the National League with Brooklyn in 1922 and jumped right into a stellar role. In 1925 he became the league's highest paid pitcher in the league when he signed a $20,000 contract. His check was boosted to $25,000 in 1931, but dropped to $15,000 last year and he was asked to take a further cut this year. He had not signed a Dodger contract, although he was not listed as a holdout.

Carroll, also a right-hander and a former Holy Cross College star, never was considered in the same class with "the Dazzler." He played with Detroit and last year with Cincinnati, where he won the doubtful distinction of losing more games than any other National League hurler. He went to St. Louis last year and was sent Jim Bottomley to the Reds.

Both Flowers and Slade were rated as substitute infielders last year. Slade played in 23 games at third base for the Dodgers and made a .241 batting average. Flowers, usually at third, tried all the infield positions except first, and hit .255.

Joe Sewell Signs Contract.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP)—It may be another full month before Babe Ruth gets down to the serious business of reaching a compromise on his 1933 salary with the Yankees, but while in the midst of finishing preparations for going south tomorrow with his family, the slugger made it clear he will not play any exhibition games before signing a new contract.

The Babe made up his mind on this important point two years ago, when he decided to play his home games in the United States and to leave the line until the day before the spring exhibition began. He has not changed it, for the reason he believes the risk would be entirely too great.

The first "varsity" regular to sign a Yankee contract so far, outside the battery department, is Joe Sewell, the veteran Alabama third baseman whose contract with the Dodgers and made a $24,000 salary with the Yankees last year. The club announced receipt of his contract today, along with those of Joe Glenn, of Dickinson City, Pa., recruit catcher; Meryl Hoag, California outfielder who has at odd times understated Babe Ruth, and Fred Walker, pitcher, who was an All-outfielder, who played with Newark last season.

Stanley Made 'Gator Coach'

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Dennis "Dutch" Stanley, varsity end coach at the University of Florida, today was selected by the state board of control to pilot the "Gators" through the 1933 gridiron season as head football mentor.

At the same time, the board adopted a resolution, making it the general policy to employ "graduates of the university for all coaching positions in either major or minor sports."

Stanley succeeds Charles M. Bachman, former Notre Dame guard, and exponent of the Rockne system, who recently resigned, effective at the end of his five-year contract, June 30.

Bachman was coach at the Kansas State Agricultural College, at Manhattan, before coming to Florida. He produced by the university, the board named three other former Florida stars. They are Rainey, Carleton, and their young son, Mrs. T. J. Jackson, Jacksonville; Ben Clemons, coach at Bartow High school, and Joe Hall, coach at Leon High school, at Tallahassee.

Stanley, who is only 26, Cawthon and Clemons all played on the crack 1928 Florida team, Cawthon at fullback and Clemons at center. Hall was an end. Stanley was running mate with Dale Van Sickle, another end, who was the only Florida player ever named on an all-American eleven.

Hoosiers To Play Grayson on Trip

The Fort Wayne Hoosiers, originally scheduled to play the J. P. C. in a basketball game here Wednesday night, February 15, will play the Grayson Athletic Club in a game in Lawrenceville, Ga., on that night instead, it was learned yesterday.

Goodman Plans Golf Rounds Over Week-End

Johnny Goodman, runner-up in the national amateur golf championship tournament last August, who is a visitor in the city for several days, said last night he hoped to get in some golf on Atlanta courses over the week-end. The weather is virtually making him homesick for Omaha, Goodman said.

Goodman is on his way to Miami, Fla., where he expects to put in a month on practice, preparatory to entering some of the major tournaments during the spring and summer. He is traveling with L. B. Tobin, publisher of the Omaha (Neb.) Bee-Nevada, Tobin and their young son, Mrs. Tobin won the Nebraska state women's golf championship in 1931.

Soon after his arrival in the city, Goodman was in communication with Charley Yates, Georgia amateur champion, and a game was arranged for Friday or Saturday afternoon, depending on the condition of the weather.

"It is entirely too cold for any golf now," Goodman said last night. "We have this brand of weather in Omaha and it was because of the warmer climate that I decided to go to Florida for a brief vacation and a few rounds of golf."

Goodman is the former Omaha end who first gained national prominence when he eliminated Bob Jones in the 1929 national amateur tournament at Pebble Beach, Cal., and then went on to win the title. He has been in the top ranks. He defeated Francis Outmet, defending champion, in the semi-finals of the national tournament, and was leading Ross Summerhill, the present champion, two up and nine to go, but the Canadian staged a sensational comeback to win.

DEFENSE ATTACKS

WILLS TESTIMONY

Doubt First Expressed as to Identity of Stranger on Carma Bared.

LONG BEACH, Cal., Feb. 8.—(AP) Existence of a doubt in the mind of Cuthbert Wills, principal state witness in the murder trial of William J. Guy, that the youthful adventurer was the stranger who boarded the yacht Carma the night Captain Walter Wanderwell was killed, was uncovered today by the defense.

Eugene McGinn, chief defense counsel, brought testimony from the witness that hardly 24 hours after the murder he was unable to identify Guy positively as the Carma's visitor.

Shifting back and forth in his chair, his face reddening occasionally under the fire of defense questions, Wills explained he failed to identify Guy at first because of what sounded to him like a different accent in the voice of the suspect.

On redirect examination, the state asked Wills if anyone had told him to identify Guy. The witness smiled readily and answered, "No, of course not."

The exchange between McGinn and Wills previously had been enlivened by an effort on the part of the defense to show that Wills had engaged in a dispute with one of the state witnesses over testimony and that Wills had been in the courtroom taking notes.

Witnesses have been confined in a special chamber during the trial, and are not to enter the courtroom to listen to the testimony of others or discuss it with them.

The witness, a slender, precise man, was the engineer of the Carma when Captain Wanderwell, globe trotter and travel promoter, was slain aboard it the night of December 5.

The importance because he took the stranger who first appeared at a porthole of the ship about 8:45 p. m., inquiring for Wanderwell.

Wills related that he took the stranger to the captain and ten minutes later heard a shot. Rushing forward, he found the body of the captain with a bullet in the back. The stranger had disappeared. He picked out Guy in the courtroom yesterday as the stranger.

Following up the attempt to break down Wills' identification of Guy, McGinn asked him whether he had gone to Los Angeles December 6 and was shown a picture of a suspect.

Wills said he had and that he failed to recognize any likeness between the picture and the face of the stranger.

He said he also looked over a number of suspects and saw a man who looked like the stranger on the ship, but when he spoke his voice didn't have the same accent, a German accent, the stranger had, so failed to pick out the man.

On redirect examination, the state brought out that Wills was positive of the identification of Guy, although the suspect had changed his voice from the manner in which he spoke while inquiring for Wanderwell.

Post Flies to Miami,

Sets New Speed Mark

Flying the Winnie Mae, the plane in which he and Harold Gatty flew around the world in eight and a half days, Wiley Post, noted pilot, set a new-stop speed record between Miami and Atlanta Tuesday, covering the distance in three hours and 50 minutes for an average of nearly 200 miles an hour.

Inclement weather caused a change in plans. Post originally intending to stop off in Birmingham, Lowering clouds in the vicinity of the Alabama city caused him to bring the ship through to Atlanta, and resulted in the setting of the record, despite the fact that Post had flown nearly 100 miles off the direct airline between Atlanta and Miami. Post arrived in Atlanta last Sunday.

Hit by Automobile,

Boy, 7, Near Death

Attempting to avoid being struck by a truck, William Bishop, 7, of a Windsor street address, was probably fatally injured early Wednesday night when he was hit by an automobile driven by Carlton Edge, of Decatur, route 3, according to police reports. The accident occurred at Broad and Hunter streets.

The child was taken to Grady hospital, where attaches said a change in plans was critical. Edge told police the child jumped from in front of a heavy truck proceeding down Broad street, and was struck by his car before he was able to stop. He reported the matter to police and aided in carrying William to the hospital. Police laid a technical charge of reckless driving against Edge.

KNIFE WOUND VICTIM

SUCCUMBS AT GRADY

Struck by a butcher knife by a negro, after an argument, Doyal Barnes, 29, of 529 Washington street, painter and interior decorator, died Wednesday morning at Grady hospital. The wound was inflicted January 30.

According to police reports, Barnes became involved in a dispute with two negroes on Decatur street. Wilbur Barnes, 33, negro, of 801-2 Decatur street, happened along at the time and joined in the heated argument.

He was severely cut by Barnes and, police said, pulled the knife from his chest and inflicted a fatal wound on Barnes. He is being held by police on a charge of suspicion of murder.

Barnes is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Barnes, of Florence, Ala.; a brother, Claude Barnes, of Florence, and four sisters, Mrs. G. W. Shankle, of Atlanta; Mrs. C. N. C. of Birmingham, Ala.; and Mrs. H. L. Brown and Mrs. S. B. Edwards, of Memphis, Tenn.

The funeral will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Harry G. Poole, the Rev. E. M. Altman officiating. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

C. A. STRICKLAND, 61,

PASSES AT RESIDENCE

C. A. Strickland, 61, well-known church worker, died late Wednesday afternoon at his residence at 507 Fernwell street, S. W., of an illness of two weeks. He was a member of the St. John Methodist church and had been a member of the board of stewards since 1922. He had been a resident of Atlanta since 1903, and was connected with a finance company.

He is survived by his wife; two sons, J. W. and T. C. Strickland; a daughter, Mrs. C. M. Kimball, of Birmingham, Ala.; two sisters, Mrs. W. A. Moore and Mrs. G. Lyle, of Atlanta; and two brothers, M. Paul Strickland, and the Rev. Jeff Strickland, well-known Atlanta minister, who has been pastor of the old Bonnie Brae, the Walker Street and the Payne Memorial Methodist churches. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Harry G. Poole.

WALLACE IS SEEN

FOR FARM OFFICE

Federal Board Expected To Give Opportunity to Other Possibilities.

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON. MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 8.—(AP)—National democratic leaders are regarding Henry Wallace, of Iowa, as the best bet for secretary of agriculture in the Roosevelt cabinet.

This talk at temporary headquarters here also brings into the farm setup of the new administration the names of other prominent agricultural leaders.

A reorganization of the farm board is under study and through this medium undoubtedly other possibilities for the agriculture secretaryship will be taken care of.

It is believed that Mr. Roosevelt has in mind, in addition to Wallace, such men as Frank Murphy, of Minnesota; George N. Peake, of Illinois; William Hirth, of Missouri; and Fred Freestone, of New York state.

One vacancy already exists on the farm board. Another will occur within a few months by the expiration of a term.

Meanwhile, several names are being mentioned for the important offices of collector of the port of New York and for district attorney for the southern district.

For collector, such men are mentioned as Harry T. Foley, of Westchester; Clifford Miller, of Columbia county; David F. Lee, of Binghamton; Winfield Huppuch, of Glens Falls, and Raymond Fisher, of Rockland county—all up-state men.

It is believed certain that Flynn will have the final say on district attorney for New York city. The name of Charles McLaughlin has been mentioned in this respect.

The determination of Farley to continue not only as national party chairman but as state chairman as well as probably becoming postmaster-general leaves no doubt that the Roosevelt forces are going to keep firm command of the New York situation.

Dr. Herty to Address

Joint Session Today

The legislature will meet in joint session in the hall of the house of representatives at 1 o'clock this afternoon to hear an address by Dr. Charles H. Herty, of New York, who for more than a year has been making experiments at Savannah and studying the process of making newspaper print from Georgia slash pine.

Special committees of the two houses will escort Dr. Herty to the platform.

On next Wednesday afternoon the house and senate will hear Governor Sennett Comer and Tax Commissioner A. H. Stone, of Mississippi, discuss the sales tax as adopted last year in their state. Acceptance of an invitation of the legislature was received Wednesday by President Hamilton McWhorter, of the senate, and Speaker Rivers, of the house, from Governor Comer and Commissioner Stone.

21 Dry Law Violators

Convicted in Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Nate Goldberg, Merchant D. O'Neil and 19 other men were convicted in federal court here today of charges of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act and possession of 12,000 pints of liquor seized when they were arrested last March.

Prohibition agents said the men were arrested as they stood around hundreds of crates of smuggled liquor which was being packed for shipment as perishable goods.

Local Druggists Now Offering a Special Trial Size—A 25c Value For Only 10c, While Supply Lasts.

The makers of Vicks VapoRub have now produced an antiseptic. It is called Vicks Vionate Antiseptic. No other antiseptic claims are made for it. It is simply the best oral antiseptic Vicks Chemists could produce. And they were aided by the chemists, bacteriologists, and pharmacologists of their 16 allied organizations in America, England, and Germany.

In most American families, such an antiseptic is now considered a daily necessity—for halitosis (bad breath), oral hygiene, and other antiseptic uses. That a gargle and mouthwash—guaranteed by the Vicks name and reputation—can be had now, at actually less than half the usual cost, is welcome news to millions of people.

Of course, the only real proof of its quality—and its economy—is actual use. To furnish such proof, the makers have supplied druggists with five million bottles of a special trial size at less than cost of manufacture. Each bottle contains 2½ ounces—a 25c value. The price to you—while the supply lasts—is only 10c.—(adv.)

Atlanta Woman's Club To Give Georgia Bicentennial Luncheon

The Atlanta Woman's Club will entertain at luncheon Wednesday, February 15, at 12:30 o'clock, this affair to be one of the most outstanding events commemorating the Georgia bicentennial. The luncheon will feature Georgia's horticultural resources and will be in charge of Mrs. Frederick C. Rice, chairman of forestry for the Atlanta federation and chairman of Georgia products for the Atlanta Woman's Club.

Among prominent honor guests invited for luncheon are Governor Eugene Talmadge and Mrs. Talmadge, Claude Adams, commissioner of agriculture, and Mrs. Adams; Mr. and Mrs. T. Guy Woodford, Dr. Charles Herty, of Savannah; Mrs. M. E. Judd, of Dalton; Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Haden, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Papp, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Twitty, Mrs. John F. MacDougald, president fifth district of Federated Women's Clubs; Mrs. R. Murdoch Walker, president Atlanta federation; Mrs. William P. Dunn, president Atlanta Woman's Club; Miss Mildred Cabanis, Mrs. H. S. Hamilton, chairman of forestry for the fifth district and the Atlanta federation; Miss Virginia Hardin, chairman of forestry for the Atlanta Woman's Club; Walter Hendrix, Walter Sims, state senator, and others.

Special guests for the occasion include the following Georgia composers, who will be guests of the Atlanta

Music Club at the luncheon: Mrs. Florence Guiton Bateman, Alfredo Barilli, C. W. Dickmann, George S. Lindner and Hugh Hodgson.

A feature of the luncheon will be the beautiful program of music appropriate to the occasion which has been arranged by Mrs. Walter Bedard, T. Stanley Perry, widely known Atlanta tenor, will sing the "Red Old Hills of Georgia" and "Into the Woods My Master Went." An interesting note in connection with Mr. Perry's first selection is the fact that the words to this well-loved song were written by General Henry R. Jackson, grandfather of Mrs. Wilmer L. Moore, one of the club's most active members. The words were later set to music by Rev. Keff Smith, Sidney Lanier, beloved Georgia poet, wrote the words to the second selection and they were set to music by Ethelbert Nevin.

Mrs. Hugh Ellison and her committee will be in charge of decorations for the table. The interested public is invited to attend this luncheon, which will feature the use of Georgia products. All clubs affiliated with the Atlanta federation are invited and are especially urged to send their chairmen of forestry and of Georgia products. Reservations for the luncheon will be 50 cents per person and may be made by telephoning Hank 4636, the Atlanta Woman's Club.

Parties wishing to make reservations for bridge during the afternoon at an extra cost, may do so. Tables will be placed throughout the lower floor of the clubhouse.

Y. W. C. A. Announces Plans For interesting Activities

Y. W. C. A. health education department announces new classes in gym, tap and children's dancing beginning this week, and invites girls and women who are keen about keeping trim to join immediately. New folders, containing complete information about hours, prices and classes may be secured by calling WOLANT 8081 or asking at information desk, 37 Auburn avenue.

The matron's gym, one of the most popular classes, continues on Tuesdays and Fridays from 10 to 11 o'clock, with special attention being given to newcomers. A new series of routines in the Monday and Wednesday afternoon tap class will be suitable for beginners. The afternoon gym class, Mondays and Wednesdays, is especially in line to teachers and others who have leisure time in the afternoon and will emphasize reducing and body-building exercises. The class for business girls from 5:30 to 6:30 on Tuesdays and Fridays remains unchanged.

A new venture is the tap dancing class for children held on Tuesday evenings from 3:30 to 4:30 o'clock. Miss Ramond Wilson, of Agnes Scott College, continues the beginner and advanced classes for children on Thursday afternoons.

Swimming Tests.
A new feature in the swimming department is the national rating swimming tests, which will be given to various groups. Classes in swimming are held morning, afternoon and evening, with the pool open from 11 to 11:30 and 4:30 to 6:30 daily except Saturday, when a tippling is enjoyed from 1:30 to 2:30 o'clock. Children and mothers are invited to join the Tuesday from 3:30 to 4:30 o'clock and children have exclusive rights to the pool each Saturday from 10:30 to 12:30.

Basketball is a favorite sport, with two games scheduled at Monroe, Ga., at both the A. & M. school and the high school. Practice games with Grace Methodist church and Druid Hills Methodist church teams provide much fun as well as perfecting skill and exercising muscles. Miss Frances Keller, physical director, invites business girls or teachers to join the Y team.

A new club is being organized in the business girls' department, which will offer recreational activities to the young business girl who is just out of high school. Miss Ethel Moore, member of the Business Girls League and former member of the board of directors, who has been an inspiring leader in Y. W. C. A. affairs for several years, is sponsoring the new club.

Southern Bell Club.
With a membership of 130, interest in the Southern Bell Club is constantly increasing and four teams, captained by Miss Thelma Cobb, Miss Lena Tolson, Miss Sara Terrell and Miss Willie Thompson, vie with each other in securing new members. Miss Reggie Sue Daniel is president, Miss Pearl Blackwell, Mrs. Elsie Holmes, Mrs. Harriett Archer and Mrs. Lucile Kelly are sponsors.

Mrs. Emmett Quinn, who was recently appointed to the membership basis commission by the Y. W. C. A. national board of New York, will conduct a series of studies on the purpose of the Y. W. C. A. for a selected group of leaders from the business girls' department. Outlining the duty of the commission and far-reaching result of the reports, Mrs. Quinn will invite discussion and solicit opinions of local business girls on the place of the Y. W. C. A. in present chaotic conditions. Representatives meeting Mrs. Quinn from February 9 through March 2 on Thursday evenings are Misses Reggie Sue Daniel, Ruth Danbury, Thelma Cobb, Elizabeth Hayes, Martha Manning, Louise Walker, Dorothy Davidson, Dorothy Ganskov, Eunice Veitch, Mamie Williams, Mary Phelps, Hazel Carter and Mrs. Phillip Sanders, member of the business girls' committee.

Vacant Chair Circle Plans Benefit Party

Vacant Chair Circle of Atlanta will sponsor a benefit bridge-luncheon Friday, February 10, at 12:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. William Fisch, 1733 Ponce de Leon avenue. Tickets will be 50 cents including the luncheon and may be bought from any circle member, or reservations may be made by calling Mrs. William Fisch, Dearborn 3545, or Mrs. James Stanley Moore, Hemlock 8571. A prize will be given each table for high score.

The proceeds of the benefit will go for the upkeep of the isolation hospital of the Atlanta Child's Home, and other charitable organizations the circle assists in support. Active members of the circle are Mesdames James Stanley Moore, William Fisch, James R. Gray Jr., Marion Moore, Delois Hill, Winfield Jones, Ernest O'Leary, Julian Chambers, T. T. Halper, Donald Eastman, Allan Wisburg, Virgil Warren, Arthur Wisburg, Ewing Dean, J. W. Barnett and Joseph Fisch.

Luncheons To Honor New York Visitor

Mrs. Henry S. Jackson, of New York City, is a former Atlantan who is receiving cordial welcome here as the guest of Mrs. James E. Hickey at her home on Wesley avenue. Mrs. Jackson will be honor guest at a number of informal social affairs which are being planned in her honor during her visit. Mrs. Floyd W. McRae will be hostess at luncheon Saturday at 1 o'clock at her home on Peachtree road in honor of Mrs. Jackson.

Mrs. William Bailey Lamar will entertain at luncheon Wednesday, February 15, at the home of her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers Toy, on Westminster drive, as a complimentary gesture to this visitor. Covington will be placed for 12 friends of the honor guest.

Jewish Council Hears Dr. Pergler.

Dr. Charles Pergler, lecturer on jurisprudence, constitutional law and comparative governments at the National University Law School, in Washington, D. C., was the guest speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Council of Jewish Women, Mrs. Armand Wyle presiding. Dr. Pergler, who received his education at leading universities here and abroad, spoke on various phases of international problems. He discussed the relations between different European countries from political, economic and geographic aspects, particularly those resulting from the peace treaties made after the World War. Besides presenting his wealth of material in an unusually forceful manner, Dr. Pergler possesses a complete background for his subject, having been accredited with numbers of diplomatic representations for Czechoslovakia and having been a member of parliament in Czechoslovakia.

After the business meeting Miss Flora Hatcher, director of recreation at the Y. W. C. A., spoke on "Recreational Needs in Atlanta" as part of the program sponsored by the social service committee of the council. Miss Hatcher stressed the urgent need for recreational guidance among the unemployed who are accustomed to planning their leisure time otherwise the unemployment problem will continue to assume even graver aspects as a medical problem.

Turkey Dinner.

A fried oyster and turkey dinner will be served by the ladies of St. Luke's Guild at the St. Luke's hotel, 552 Peachtree street, N. E., Thursday evening, February 9, from 6 until 8 o'clock. The lunch room is open to the public.

BRIDGE PLAYERS.
Mrs. Bertha Gehard and Mrs. O. H. Baker. 153
Mrs. Robert Valtata and Mrs. E. E. Baker. 153

You of a bridge-playing tendency will recall what a tremendous success the Junior League tournament of last year turned out to be. Some 500 bridge players assembled at the Piedmont Driving Club to take their chances against the field with the very laudable ambition of winning one or more of the really handsome prizes which this organization had offered.

One more year has passed over the graying heads of the bridge brethren. The depression is still in full bloom. Many of the Junior Leagues have put Mrs. where once a Miss was before their names. Many who were Mrs. are wishing they were still Miss.

Many of the Junior Leagues have put Mrs. where once a Miss was before their names. Many who were Mrs. are wishing they were still Miss. Many of the Junior Leagues have put Mrs. where once a Miss was before their names. Many who were Mrs. are wishing they were still Miss.

I dislike intensely to be grossly materialistic and deviate from the skill and science of contract bridge to discuss such practical things as prizes. But the splendid array of worth-while things that the Junior Leagues have collected astounds me to such a degree that I must make mention of just a few.

Now take for example that pastel sketch which will be made by Carl Vretman of the winner of some event, maybe it will be offered as the grand prize; they don't know yet. All who are familiar with the work of this gifted Atlanta artist know that he has a way of making the thing that he is sketching so homely that it should spur many a homely player to real heights of brilliance.

Turning from the prizes to the new kinsman, direct we find that Hogenstein has donated an array of lingerie that would make many a prospective bride envious. Some people, many of them my friends, consider me quite ignorant on many occasions concerning contract. The criticism may be merited. But I do plead guilty to no expert knowledge of lingerie. If pressed for an answer, I will fall back on my constitutional rights and reply that to do so would be to incriminate myself. However, even as ignorant as I am on such matters I cannot fail to be impressed with the sly looks that greet the eye when viewing the legendary donation.

Making a slight digression from the astute subjects, let us consider the economic possibilities open to winners. Many of the popular eating places of our city have extended invitations to the winners. In times like these such a proposition should prove extremely attractive. A hungry bridge player exultantly raises his, or her, game to exalted heights.

I had better sign off on this subject as I will use up all my allotted space. At any rate you will likely be there on the evening of February 15 and will get a crack at the beautiful, attractive and useful prizes.

It has now been definitely decided to hold the events in the Georgia state tournament in the following order: Wednesday, March 1, mixed pair championship; Thursday, individual championship; Friday, mixed team-of-four; Saturday, open pair. Two sessions will be held in each event, afternoon and evening.

Already out-of-town entries are being received for what promises to be the most successful bridge event ever staged in Georgia. Atlanta players will be in full force and the outlook is for the largest entry list ever seen in the three-year history of the event.

The management of the Canvendish Club, under whose banner the tournament is being conducted, is very anxious to have as many early entries as possible in order to get a line on the prospective list. It also will be glad to assist players in arranging teams-of-four. Many have already players in town who have no team affiliation, yet are most anxious to get on some good team.

The following well-known figures in the bridge world have been placed on the tournament committee: Billy Barrett, Augusta, Ga.; Mrs. Frank Calhoun, Augusta; Whitner Cary, Larry Caudill, Wylie Clarke, Savannah; Mrs. J. P. Doughty Jr., Augusta; Jack Feagin, Macon; Mrs. Annie Adair Foster, Mrs. William Gary, Augusta; Henry Grady Jr., Atlanta; John Johnson, Clarissa Knowles, Mrs. Emma McDaniel, Bascom Passmore, Mrs. E. F. Porter, Athens; Sidney Smith, Mike Thomas, Henry Tompkins, Carl Vretman and Mrs. Max Wright.

Mrs. Emma McDaniel, whose tournaments are proving so enjoyable, has added rubber bridge play to her study activities. Those wishing to have games arranged at Mrs. McDaniel's can do so by phoning her. The exhibition duplicate matches will be played at Ponce de Leon and this week. Under the capable direction of Mrs. Annie Adair Foster, they have been conducted in splendid fashion and have attracted much interest. At every session scores of interested spectators surround the players. The schedule for the final matches is as follows:

Thursday afternoon, Mrs. L. O. Carhart and Ed Nix against Mrs. Humphrey Wagar and Whitner Cary; Friday afternoon, Mrs. A. P. Calhoun against Mrs. J. P. Doughty Jr.; Saturday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Thomas against Mr. and Mrs. Larry Caudill.

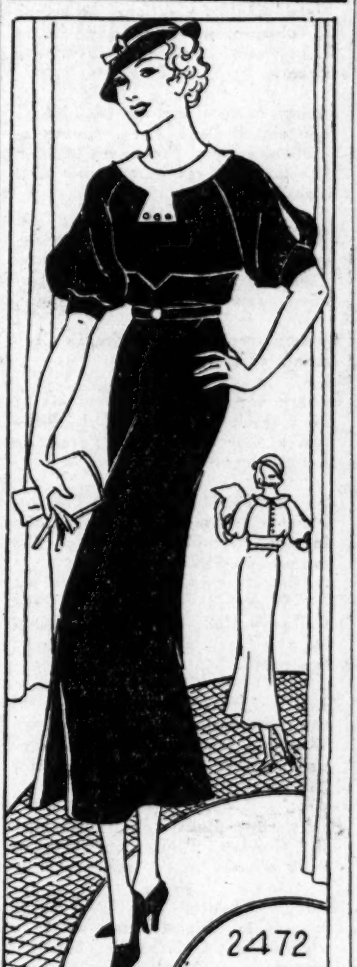

Azalea Garden Club Asks Aid To Buy Seed for Needy

The Azalea Garden Club is again asking the co-operation of garden clubs of Georgia in helping to make this a healthy and helpful year for the needy of Atlanta. With the club furnishing the garden seed to plant, and the help of the Welfare Society, placing the seed where most needed, a wonderful work can be accomplished. Miss Rhoda Kaufman, secretary of the Family Welfare Society, has written the following story to Mrs. O. W. Dyerle, chairman of welfare work for the Azalea Garden Club:

"A bleak looking house, red clay in the yard, but inside the house a woman longing to make things beautiful like she did once in years gone by with just a few seeds. The seeds came, a little fertilizer, and she and the children made happy by a garden club whose members know what it means to long for growing things. They got busy and almost before one knew what had happened a transformation had taken place. Rusty, bent, but durable wire was set up around the back yard to keep the neighborhood chickens out. A grape vine discovered by the back porch was coaxed and coaxed; tomatoes, beans and other vegetables were planted, watered, watched and tended in the back yard, and down the front wall was set every stone that could be found by the children. Every tuft of grass was dug up and soon colorful flowers made appearance against the front of the house. By mid-summer it was like a different place, and during the winter canned tomatoes, beans and grape juice kept appearing in the memories. This story can be duplicated a dozen fold this spring if the garden clubs are willing."

"We are again asking your help. Send your check or money to Welfare Society, at 11 Pryor street, or to Mrs. O. W. Dyerle, 1740 Cornell road, northeast."

SLASH YOUR NEW SLEEVES.

This is the sort of frock young things dote on. It has such trim and snappy lines... the perky white collar, slashed puff sleeves set in raglan fashion and the built-up skirt effect achieved by clever seaming of the bodice. Notice the back view, too, if you'd have the last minute word on openings. Irresistible in the new spring shades.

Pattern 2472 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 requires 1-1/2 yards 38-inch fabric and 1-1/2 yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

Sold fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for this pattern. Address orders to Lillian Mae Pattern Department care The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

On the Air Today

Ruth Etting, singing to the rhythmic accompaniment of Leonard Hayton's orchestra, will offer her versions of "Moonlight on the River," "Blue" and "Say It Isn't So" as the vocal highlights of the Chesterfield program at 8 o'clock tonight, February 9, on the WGST-CBS network.

An insight into the life of a bird collector will be given those who dial to stations on the WGST-Columbia network from 1:30 to 1:50 p. m., February 9, when the American Museum of Natural History program will be heard. James P. Chapin, collector of ornithological specimens for the museum, will tell of his adventures in "tropical forests and rarely visited parts of the world in search of rare birds."

Dorothy Gordon's music class of the American School of the Air, to be heard over the WGST-Columbia network from 1:30 to 2 p. m., February 9, will be subtitled "The Animal Fair." The songs which Miss Gordon will sing for children of the primary grades will be followed by a story, "The Brahman, the Tiger and the Jackal."

Concluding the "New World" Symphony of Dvorak, Howard Barlow will present the third and fourth movements, Molto vivace and Allegro con fuoco, during the broadcast over WGST-Columbia network, February 9, to 10:30 o'clock. These concluding movements, while not so well known as the famous Largo, contain several of the most beautiful themes of the symphony.

Numbers from two Broadway musical shows, "Pardon My English" and "Take a Chance," will be featured on the program to be presented by Pontiac with Colonel Stoopnagle and Budd, and supporting talent, over the WGST-Columbia network, tonight, February 9, at 8:30 o'clock.

McLendon W. C. T. U. meets Thursday, February 16, at the home of Mrs. Amelia Woodall, 505 East North avenue. Mrs. Myers will lead the devotional and Mrs. George Sims will sing. Mrs. Preston will present a Frances Willard program.

JUNIOR LEAGUE JOTTINGS

Mrs. Glenn Ryman was appointed chairman of the nominating committee of the Atlanta Junior League by Mrs. Allison Thornwell, the president, who also appointed Mrs. Turner Jones to serve upon this important committee at the meeting held Wednesday at the Piedmont Driving Club. Elected from the floor to complete the nominating committee were Mesdames Joseph W. Cooper Jr., Frank C. Owens and Claude McGinnis Jr. The aforementioned committee will prepare the list of officers for the incoming year.

Bridge Benefit.
Mrs. Charles Black Jr. reported on the elaborate plans that have been made for the Junior League bridge tournament to be held at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, February 15, at the Piedmont Driving Club. The tickets are $1, and a great many beautiful prizes have been donated by Atlanta merchants. Mrs. Humphrey Wagar is managing the tournament, and the Culbertson system of playing and the Culbertson scoring method will be used. Those attending the tournament, although not engaged in the card game, will have the privilege of cutting for prizes.

Mrs. Frank C. Owens is co-chairman of the tournament with Mrs. Black, and Mrs. Trenton Tunnell is ticket chairman. Tickets are on sale at Rich's Inc., Davidson-Paxon's, Boutwell's, Walker Library at J. P. Allen's, Atlanta Club, Canvendish Club, Junior street, Georgian Terrace Hotel, Yellow Lantern library, Jacobs' Bookstore, Atlanta Athletic Club, Stand and Club, Capital City Club and Piedmont Driving Club.

Chairman for the benefit bridge party include Mrs. Max O. Wright, tournament manager, Mrs. Grady Black, publicity chairman, and Mrs. Clark Howell Jr., in charge of tables and cards.

Mrs. Van Winkle's Report.
Mrs. Edward Van Winkle Jr., who attended the children's play conference held recently in Cleveland, Ohio, reported that she witnessed the presentation of two plays, written, dramatized and presented by members of the Cleveland Junior League. The plays included "Dick Whittington and His Cat," and "Valentine and the Gar-goyles," and were artistic and entertaining in every detail. Another feature of the conference was the presentation of three one-act plays by members of three leagues attending the conference.

"The Capture of Mr. Static," a modernistic nursery play, won the first prize, and was given by the Kansas City League, which competed with junior leagues from Flint, Mich., and Dallas, Texas. The audience was unaware as to which league was represented in the presentation of each one-act play, and Kansas City won by majority vote. "The Capture of Mr. Static," dealt with the subject of radio, and unfolded an amusing and pleasing plot. Mrs. Van Winkle was impressed with the marionette performance and by the lectures pertaining to the theater, given by nationally-known lecturers.

Miss Margaret Nelson gave the arts and interests report on the success of the Hugh Hodgson lectures on music. Mrs. Joseph Cooper Jr. called attention to the article in the Junior League magazine by Miss Margaret Nelson, and the sketch by Mrs. Preston Stevens.

Fashion Show.
The Junior League will sponsor a fashion show at Mue's at the end of February, and Mrs. Turner Jones will be in charge of this event. It was voted to give 1,000 pair of paper bed-room slippers to Grady hospital.

Mrs. William Maclean, of Cincinnati, and Mrs. Reginald Pope, a former member of the Atlanta league, were welcomed as transfers.

1—An inferential forcing bid. If North can do nothing else, he must return to South. South has three diamonds rather than four hearts which is not justified, as, if partner can also support diamonds, the hand may easily be played in that suit. The bid is quite safe, as an intelligent partner cannot pass South's inferential force, and thus the opening hand may contract for game later.

TOMORROW'S HAND.
The four and five notrump bids in the eager search for makable games, while risking possible dangers in unfavorable distribution, are among the most fascinating bids in bridge. How would you feel the combined hands below to reach a grand slam? The process will be described tomorrow.

1—This bid, by inference, is a forcing bid. North, after his partner has opened with a bid of one spade, makes a regulation takeout of two clubs. South, in response, discloses that his spade suit is not of rebid strength and that his hand is more than a bare minimum by his bid of two notrumps. If the hand is to be played short of game, it may quite likely be played as well at notrump as at spades. Hence when North now bids three spades, the inference is clear. Lacking the honor strength to force, he is requiring South, who opened the bidding, to decide whether the partnership should contract for game in spades or at notrump. Holding a five-card suit and knowing that his partner has adequate support for that suit, South's next bid is simple.

Another example of an inferential force, where there has been no jump in the bidding, is shown on the following hand. Here, after the responding hand has supported the opening bid by raising one, the auction continues on a high level by showing another suit. Obviously, the responding hand must bid further, and this he does by bidding three hearts. Although the bid is two hearts completely portrays the story of support that he holds. The hand is: South—Dealer.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD.
Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I am a married man of 36 and have a beautiful, successful wife and two children. With perfect planning we make ends meet but when the bills are paid there is not much left for fine clothes and expensive amusements. During the 16 years of our married life I have never left my family for a single evening. But I do like an occasional hour to enjoy a game of pool as the bridge game constitutes my only amusements. My wife, of course, is always at the bridge table with me.

The question that I would like answered is this: Should she raise all manner of Cain about my playing pool when I play half of the evening hours with her and all of the evening hours? We have quarreled some but I have always been true to her. I don't drink, smoke, gamble or have any expensive habits. The matter in a nutshell is this: I like a game of pool occasionally and my wife raises the roof off the house if she suspects I have been near a pool table. If I belonged to a club where I had access to all sorts of devilment, that would be another matter—but it's only a game of pool. Now what about it? H. R. H.

ANSWER:
A very wise and very worldly old man once remarked that all men were afraid of their wives. It is the way he figured it. If a man loves his wife and she loves him he is afraid of displeasing her on any score because he knows that if he doesn't love her, he feels guilty toward her and is therefore afraid of doing anything that may bring down on his head her reproaches. This correspondent is, like all men, afraid of his wife, though he has no cause to be, so long as they love each other and as long as he is dutiful toward her. Nothing could be more innocent than a game of pool occasionally. Nothing could be more unimportant than a wife's protesting against her husband's asking a few hours off each week in which to indulge his taste for the game.

For this reason he should assert himself and exercise his freedom that shouldn't be questioned by a wife. Then let him do it and let her make the best of it. What a fool a woman is to take a man that loves her and deliberately choke him to death for the satisfaction of knowing that he cannot breathe without her! And what a fool he is to be choked to death! Doesn't he know that when she has got him completely under her power she will lose her respect for him?

The English poet Landor wrote some verses that contain good philosophy for a gasping husband and a strutting wife:
"With rosy hand a little girl pressed down
A boss of fresh-cuddled cowslips in a rill."

MERRITT'S BEATEN BISCUIT

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

Serve $2. So Easy! No Cooking!

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in more homes than any other cough remedy, because it gives more prompt, positive relief. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 1/2 ounce of Pines; then add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and 1 cup of water stirred together and heated until dissolved. No cooking needed. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

Instantly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm, clears the air passages, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief in severe coughs.

Pines is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, used for generations for its healing effect on throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

THE GUMPS

AFTER THE BALL IS OVER

Someone to Love

—by Vernie Connelly—

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING

After Kay Bishop's mother craves into June Varick's home in Pilot Knob in the Ozarks, both girls are attracted to June's father, Dr. Varick. Kay's arm and June's leg are broken. Kay's brother, Bruce, who is 20 and five years older than Kay, is her guardian. Before their mother's death he promised her that he would allow Kay to marry June. If Kay marries without Bruce's consent before she is 21 her part of the large Bishop fortune goes to charity. Bruce has the right to veto any marriage. June is lame when she is 21 her part of the large Bishop fortune goes to charity. Bruce has the right to veto any marriage. June is lame when she is 21 her part of the large Bishop fortune goes to charity. Bruce has the right to veto any marriage.

I personally know several ladies present who would pay you well if you could impart your beauty secrets to them. Whereupon, he bowed to some of these ladies.

June's eyes followed the direction of his smiles and bows. But she did not see what he saw. Bruce was at a table in the direct line of her vision, with another man and two girls. He smiled and nodded, immediately excused himself, and crossed to her.

"Hello, Bruce," she said, miserably, conscious of her clothes, conscious of something deeper that troubled her.

"How are you?" he asked formally, and looked at the doctor.

"You know Dr. Henderson, Bruce."

The men exchanged greetings. A few strained remarks followed, and Bruce left them. June resolutely refrained from looking his way again, though she wanted ever so much to get a good look at the girls at his table.

Dr. Henderson ordered their luncheon, and then with suave ease commanded the attention of the girl before him. She saw him for the first time, not as a doctor, not as her father's friend, but a man. Which was precisely what he intended. She realized that he was not an old man, that is, not really old—perhaps not much past forty. Her father was forty-five when he died. And Dr. Henderson was distinguished looking, if not handsome.

"I heard you sing Saturday night," he said, "that pretty thing about love—you put so much in it that one is persuaded of your sincerity."

There were some adroit questions and June found herself explaining in detail how she had gotten her job, and the amazing swiftness with which the whole thing had unfolded.

"I'm coming to the Fountain Room some evening, if you will promise to welcome me," he said, "and dance with me."

"Of course, you know I'd be glad to."

"I wasn't sure. I've been expecting you to announce your engagement to young Bishop."

"No, I'm not thinking of it."

"You have plenty of years for that—it isn't wise to rush into matrimony until you are sure of yourself."

"Don't you believe in young marriages?"

"It is dangerous to generalize. As for you, I'd say you have a brilliant career ahead of you. So it depends on what you want most."

"I certainly never dreamed of a career—at least along the lines of what I am doing now. I had a notion I might be able to write—that was why I was going to college."

"Would you be interested in going into the movies? I have a friend who would give you an opportunity. I think. Shall I ask him?"

June was bewildered. "I don't know," she replied. "I never thought of such a thing. I'm so delighted to be engaged to a good salary—I think I'd be afraid to let go of it."

"You have nothing to fear," he assured her.

Bruce called for her that night at the Fountain Room, and they drove for an hour.

"I was astonished when I saw you at the Ritz with Henderson today," he began.

"You weren't the only one who was astonished," she reminded him. "I thought you'd be able to write—that I'd have to eat, didn't I?"

"Of course, I didn't mean it, Bruce."

"I did, and I want to ask you never again to appear in public with Henderson."

"Why? He has been very kind to me."

"He has a reputation for being kind to women. That has nothing to do with his skill as a surgeon—he is wonderful, a good salary is not many men who could have done what he did for you, probably, but you must let it end there. He brought you to the Ritz today to show you off."

"That is stupidly silly. Show me off in a walking outfit? I didn't want to come in those clothes..."

"Don't you see, you were even more conspicuous for that reason? Above convention, beyond following

Dixie Democrats Shout Joy As Roosevelt Is Being Elected

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Congress met in ceremonial joint session today and solemnly informed the country that the Roosevelt-Garner ticket won in November's elections.

Unworried over the outcome of the day's polling of the electoral college, Franklin D. Roosevelt was happily fishing in the gulf stream. But John N. Garner was present to be one of the first to get the election returns and look forward, somewhat lugubriously, to four years of presiding over the senate.

Vice President Curtis, who presided, gave him the official result, and congratulated him while the rebel yell resounded from enthusiastic southern democratic throats.

Smiling rather dourly, and speaking in a controlled voice, Garner, who is rounding out 30 years as a representative from Texas, said:

"I do not think it out of order for me to say publicly what I have said privately—I would rather remain in the house of representatives than go to the senate. I have enjoyed my service here. My ears and my eyes and whatever intellect I may have may be over there, but my heart will always be in the house of representatives."

The house stood and applauded. Drawing large envelopes containing the ballots from two dark mahogany boxes, Vice President Curtis presented them to the official tellers, who read the result of the election in the various states. The first was from Alabama, which he handed to Representative Jeffers, democrat, Alabama, who read that 11 votes had been cast for Roosevelt and Garner and that the "certificate seems to be regular in form and authentic."

The democrats yelled and applauded and the entire assemblage broke into laughter as Curtis loudly pounded for order. Then in quick succession he handed the remaining ballots to other tellers, who, besides Jeffers, were Senators Gleason, republican, Illinois; King, democrat, Utah, and Representative Gifford, republican, Mississippi.

Connecticut was the first state reached which went for Hoover and Curtis; the republicans began applauding, the democrats joined them and began to stand when Curtis pounded for order. In a second nearly all the assembly was standing.

Curtis apparently disapproved the yells and the loud applause the democrats gave the announcement of their candidates' victory, especially in the usually republican states, and he quickly turned to the next state, Alabama, which he handed to Representative Jeffers, democrat, Alabama, who read that 11 votes had been cast for Roosevelt and Garner and that the "certificate seems to be regular in form and authentic."

DISTANCE RECORD IN AIR SHATTERED

Britons Fly 5,348 Miles
Non-Stop; Others Proceed on Major Flights.

By the Associated Press.

Two officers of the British Royal Air Force, Squadron Leader O. R. Gifford and Flight Lieutenant G. E. Nicholls, set a new world's non-stop long-distance air record Wednesday by flying 5,348 miles from Cranwell, England, to Walfield Bay, Union of South Africa.

Immediately after news of their success had been received, two French aviators, Lucien Bossoutrot and Maurice Rossi, announced they would start out early Thursday for Java or Bonaire, depending upon weather conditions, in an effort to break this mark. They had their monoplane ready at Istres, France.

Meanwhile, Captain James A. Mollison, who is attempting a speed flight by stages from England to Brazil, arrived at Thies, Senegal, Wednesday and announced he would take off Thursday morning for the Atlantic leg of his marathon. He is attempting to complete the flight in 31 days.

Victor Smith, 19-year-old South African aviator, who sought to better Mrs. Amy Johnson-Mollison's record for the England-South African flight, landed his plane in landing at Oran, Algeria, Wednesday morning and could not continue his flight.

Russell T. Boardman, who with John Polando set the record which was broken by the two British officers, in Boston Wednesday night said that Polando would be his companion on Thursday morning for the next summer. He added that they probably would fly in the same direction as they did in 1931, from New York to Istanbul.

BINGHAM HALTS ACTION ON ARMS EMBARGO BILL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut, today refused to permit the senate to take up the resolution which would give the president the power to declare an arms embargo despite a request from Chairman Borah, of the foreign relations committee, that he allow the matter to be considered.

The senate passed the resolution but reconsidered its action on Bingham's request.

"It will take some time for me to give my objections to it," Bingham said, "when we haven't more important things to do. My opposition is deep-seated, based in part on a belief that this matter will get us into serious trouble and might lead to getting us into a war instead of preventing one."

Cross Sections of Life In Gate City of South

Writer's group of the Studio Club will meet at 7:45 o'clock tonight in the Studio Clubroom. It was announced by Mrs. N. H. McDonald, chairman. The program will include a general discussion of the works contributed by individual members.

Major James L. Key Wednesday approved council resolutions to abolish civil service protection for Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant and for Chief of the Fire Department John Terrell. A bill asking that these departments be selected every four years by council and not for life will be introduced in the legislature. The mayor also sanctioned a resolution vesting property rights of the famous engine "Texas" in the Georgia public service commission. Permission for a marathon drive in Atlanta will be discussed at 10 o'clock this morning before the mayor.

F. H. Smith, 26, of 450 Chestnut street, was in a serious condition Wednesday night as the result of a fall taken at his home, according to police and hospital reports. The reason for the fall was not known, police said. Smith was brought to Grady hospital by his brother, who said he had drunk a bottle of slow-acting poison.

City Club will meet at 12:30 o'clock today at the Wincoff hotel. It was announced by J. Frank Beck, president. Robert E. Choate, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will be the principal speaker.

Dr. C. G. Kemper, Atlanta physician, reported to police Wednesday that a man had been killed in a automobile while parked outside the emergency clinic at the Grady hospital and that the man had been killed by a bullet fired from a .38 Smith & Wesson revolver. The man was identified as a patient of the clinic and was named as a patient of the clinic.

Condition of L. H. Satterfield, Atlanta patrolman, who was injured when he was struck by a car on Sunday, was reported unchanged at Grady hospital Wednesday. Physicians gave him an even chance to recover.

Judge G. H. Howard will seek a convalesce here, possibly on the fourth Monday in May, of all judges in the state, with view to establishing a uniform method of court procedure, it was announced Wednesday by the jurist. He will present the matter at the next meeting of Fulton superior court judges to be held Saturday morning.

Plans for an oyster roast on Sunday, March 5, were made at Wednesday's meeting of the Savannah Club of Atlanta. W. B. Gibbs, Savannah chemist, was the guest speaker at the luncheon. Herman Kulman is president of the club, and can be reached at Walnut 5701 for details of the oyster roast plans.

"Tubby" Walton, largest Atlantan, and Frank Darnell, midget, will be the principal actors in a womanless wedding to be held at the Girls' High school auditorium at 8 o'clock Friday night. The proceeds will go for the benefit of the Grant Park Methodist church building fund.

Mrs. Frances Morgan was granted a divorce from H. E. Morgan and custody of her four-year-old son in superior court Wednesday. She testified that her husband was given a sentence on the chain gang. Judge Virlyn B. Moore is presiding over divorce cases.

Judge E. D. Thomas Wednesday received a telegram from New York demanding that he release Angelo Herndon, convicted of sedition, who is under an 10-to-20-year sentence for attempting to incite to insurrection. He has appealed his case. The wire was signed by Don Berke, secretary, Sunny Side Branch, International Labor Defense, Long Island City, New York.

Korngay Furniture Company was named defendant in an involuntary bankruptcy petition filed in federal district court Wednesday by three creditors. A petition receiver also was filed but none named as yet.

Robert Eford and J. S. Nunnally were named receivers for the Bankers Savings and Loan Company Wednesday in federal district court in involuntary bankruptcy proceedings which were brought over from state court action earlier in the week. The receiver's bonds were fixed at $500.

Four youths, James Smith, of 221 Carroll street; William Poss, of 662 Fair street; Alvin Ford, of 183 Gibbon street; and Fred Stevens, of 183 Fenwick street, were held under $1,000 bond Tuesday on charges of disorderly conduct, pending their investigation by detectives in connection with automobile robberies.

Travelers' Aid Society will hold its monthly meeting at 10:30 o'clock Friday in room No. 4 of the Terminal station.

Veteran Newspaperman Dies at Winter Home in Florida.

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va., Feb. 8.—(AP)—James H. Davis, 70, owner of the Charlotteville Daily Progress, and a veteran newspaperman and educator, died at his winter home in Orlando, Fla., yesterday.

Mr. Davis, who founded the Daily Progress 40 years ago, had worked previously as a newspaperman in North Carolina. At the age of 15 he was an instructor in the Staunton grammar schools and later was an instructor in the Virginia school for deaf and blind at Staunton, on whose board he served for 20 years. He also was a member of the constitutional convention of 1901-02.

His death followed complications from a recent influenza attack.

The widow and a daughter, Mrs. A. Paxon, of Orlando, survive.

MISS ANNA TOOHEY. WATERVILLE, N. Y., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Miss Anna M. Toohey, 73, city historian and widely known composer of music and prose, is dead.

Educated at Mount St. Mary convent and Villa Maria College in Montreal, Miss Toohey wrote music and engaged in newspaper work for many years. In 1876 her song, "The Belle of Washington," was played at the nation's centennial observance.

JUDGE CLARENCE BURNETT. JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Judge Clarence A. Burnett, one of the new members of the Missouri supreme court, died here early today, apparently of heart disease.

For many years a circuit judge in Kansas City, he was elected to the supreme court bench in the democratic landslide in November.

JOHN MCALIFFE. NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(AP)—John McAliffie, 42, an inspector in the department of highways of Richmond borough, for many years, died at his home Tuesday of heart disease.

LUKE WOOD. SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Luke Wood, 80, prominent resident of Onset, Mass., and an extensive property owner here, died today. He had been ill for a year.

SIR JAMES CORY. CARDIFF, Wales, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Sir James Herbert Cory, 76, important figure in south Wales shipping circles, died of pneumonia today at his home in Coryton.

A. C. WYATT. SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Feb. 8.—(AP)—A. C. Wyatt, noted English landscape artist, died in his sleep today at his home in Monterey.

The artist had been taking treatments for his heart.

Wyatt had painted in the New England states, in South Carolina and Hawaii. He was awarded two gold medals for landscape painting by the Royal Institute of Painters in Water Colors, London, and was awarded the only diploma of honor for garden painting by the Royal International Horticultural Exhibition, London, in 1912.

His widow, Irving Hera, and a son survive.

MRS. M. Z. E. TOMLINSON. BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. M. Z. E. Tomlinson, in whose home the echoes of the "rebel yell" and the marching tramp of southern soldiers never faded through the years since Appomattox, died today of heart disease, an indomitable, "unconquered" lady of the old south, for whom the Stars and Bars were never lowered.

Mrs. Tomlinson, 92 years old, was known for her unflinching loyalty to the southern secession cause. To the last she was, as she proudly called herself, a "rebel" to whom the triumph of the Union arms meant nothing.

WILLIAM M. MASI. COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Feb. 8.—(AP)—William M. Masi, who took part in the founding of Cheyenne, Wyo., died today morning of heart disease at his home in the city of the Wyoming capital, died here today.

Sixty years ago, Mr. Masi was a member of General Grant's Division party when the cavalcade of Union Pacific railroad men and army officers, at the end of a day of hard riding, dropped from the train and rode on horseback to the ground and declared that the site should be Cheyenne.

MRS. F. C. SMITH. AIKEN, S. C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Frances Gooden Smith, widow of J. Hopkins Smith, of New York and Bar Harbor, Maine, died today at her home here after an illness of several months.

JUDGE M. F. HORNE. JASPER, Fla., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Circuit Judge Mallory Frederick Horne, 62, died at his home here today following an extended illness. Judge Horne had been serving in the third judicial circuit since his appointment in 1912 by Governor Gilchrist.

JAMES P. FAGAN. NATCHEZ, Miss., Feb. 8.—(AP)—James P. Fagan, 60, one of the most successful cotton planters of Louisiana, died suddenly today at his home on Scotland plantation in Concordia parish.
